Most of the material presented in this document is retrieved from the Internet. Some information is recreated from LP sleeves and CD inlays. All this is done without any permission from the original authors. This document is made for my personal use and is neither sold nor made public available.

In order to publish this document or parts thereof, the permission of the original authors is required.

This Document is recreated from scratch using LibreOffice Writer V6.2 in early 2020. This was necessary because the previous version still contained some leftover from Microsoft Word used for the very first version. This was said to possibly cause the problems with file corruption after it reached some 400 pages. But then the problem had still been there and finally turned out to be caused by the many tables used. It has taken years to figure this out because although I tried every now and then to create a reproducer small enough to upload to the engineering, it was pure luck that I finally was able to create one. The solution for now is to maintain the tables in a separate document ($MJ_Sessions).

Preface

Information Sources

This information repository about Mahalia Jackson was created from information from many different sources. The majority is from actual LP's and CD's and from the Internet, while a smaller part is from borrowed LP's, mails sent by several people and press publications.

The actual source (or sources) is shown for each individual item. To avoid listing the full Internet address each time, here is a list of the URL's used:

Mahalia Jackson Internet Pages:

Dominik Aulfes (Munich)

Dough Dornbos

Unfortunately the internet sites of both are no longer available. When I did some research I found that Dominik died in August 2017. For Dough I could not find any new email or site address.

Other sources:

Laughton Bob Laughton
 Bob has published books about gospel songs and has supplied many details by mail.

Media

Media marked with an asterisk after the title have been physically available. Track listings, track time, item numbers, etc. for these items are accurate. All other items are based on information as indicated which is not always as accurate as one would expect. Mainly track timing is sometimes wrong, even on the sleeves or inlays. The difference to the actual time ranges from a few seconds (which can be due to taking the gap between songs into account or not) to more than a minute! This can be due to typos (2'13 instead of 2'31) or because a wrong take is referenced, but sometimes it is just wrong. Life recordings may also differ because more or less applause is included. A further reason is that tape speed is not absolute. In the process of digitally remastering the original tapes, a slightly different speed is sometimes used by different studios.

If the recording Take-ID is printed upright, the date of the take was given on the CD or LP itself, was explicitly mentioned for this item in the discography or has been determined by comparing the song with a reference. If the Take-ID is printed in italic, the number is guessed based on title and track time.

Associated Documents

Sessions

This Document contains all takes in chronological order, date, location and accompaniment. There is also a list used to identify takes by title and time, a list of componists and authors and a list of all persons which accompanied Mahalia.

Song Comments

This document contains descriptions of some takes. Currently most information herein is from the booklet supplied with Gospel, Spiritual and Hymns Vol. 1 but a few are also from the Internet.

Lyrics

The song texts are mainly from two Internet sources:

The Cyber Hymnal <http://www.hymntime.com/tch/>

The Song Pages <http://hot.virtual-pc.com/guitar/>

The Song Pages do no longer exists at this location.

Others are from the CD's Just as I am (Pvine) and Newport 1958.

Lyrics marked with an asterisk are incomplete or not verified against the actual take.

I have tried to recreate some more lyrics by listening to the songs. Unfortunately, for someone for who English is not the native language, it is nearly impossible to understand all the words. When the original text is available, it is relatively easy to notice the deviations, but even there I had to add some question marks to indicate uncertainties.

Many recordings from or with Mahalia are rare, but this one is extremely scarce and almost impossible to find. It contains recordings of an evangelical day organized by the Dutch Bible Society to celebrate their 150th anniversary. The live event was held in Amsterdam at "Hemelvaartsdag" (May 7 1964).

Additional 14 tracks are from other artists, but because these tracks aren't found on any other item, it is listed here rather than under samplers.

Track 18 of CD 1 (Closer to me) is the only track of these two CD's which is stereo. However, the same title on the CD's 'Beautiful tomorrow' and 'How I got over' is monaural, and they are from the same take you can listen them side by side on two players and they are absolutely synchrony in any aspect. Also, based on the estimated recording time (in the early 50's) this must be an artificial effect applied at some later time.

Track 5 and 6 are terribly similar to track 20 and 21. While both takes of part 1 are also very similar so that they can hardly be distinguished from each other, the two takes of part 2 are rather different. Track 6 does not match the master take but is much closer to the alternate one, such as if the alternate take is twice on this same CD.

Track 6 might be a different take, but I'm not sure. There is a 12 Second piano prologue, which is not present on 'How I got over'. Also, the whole song is somewhat slower than the reference (which could be due to a lower tape or disk speed on the remastering process). Other than that the two songs do not exhibit a noticeable difference, but it's very hard to compare them.

AMG expert Review: It's a joy to hear Mahalia Jackson's early-'50s Apollo sides in good, clean digitalized stereo. The quality here is better than all previous reissue material ... Soaring and sometimes graceful vocal dynamics by this great diva of gospel and spirituals, but there's a shameful lack of pictures and book notes. This is 18 of the best.

"Moving On Up A Little Higher" explores Mahalia's roots, as she performs hymns of her childhood and reunites with her mentor, Thomas A. Dorsey. These performances date from 1946 to 1957, when Mahalia's voice was at it's golden best. Highlights include the only known recording of Mahalia, accompanied by Thomas A. Dorsey, two live versions of her first and greatest hit, "Move On Up A Little Higher" and two of her most important concerts: a 1951 symposium that introduced her to a larger, interracial public and the 1957 Newport Jazz Festival concert. All selections previously unissued!

I expected this CD to be a reissue of the original Newport LP, where some tracks are studio remakes recorded in August 1958. But it's not! It is the same as 'Life at Newport, 1958' (CK53629) by Legacy Records. Only the breaks between takes differ slightly within the applause.

A internet newsgroup indicates that these tracks might be from a concert at the Lincoln Center in New York in the late fifties, at about the time the center was opened. However, the first performance there took place on September 23, 1962. Also, Mahalia gave a Easter Concert there on April 26, 1967 (see LP Mahalia in Concert) so this may all be wrong.

Dominik Aulfes says: Vogue CD featuring rare tracks, apparently mastered from original Columbia TV appearances. These songs are only available on this CD (out of print) and on some rare French LPs and were never issued outside Europe.

This CD is identical with "We shall overcome (Digi)" (see page 237).

Track 13 has not been mentioned in the original discography, but it is obviously from the same concert. Also the day assignment for the tracks is probably wrong: tracks 4-5-6-7 seem to be taken in one contiguous stream as do tracks 8-9-10-11-12-13. Track 9 starts with the end of track 8 and also contains the beginning of track 10.

From listening carefully at the transitions on this CD and also on 'The gold collection (Retro) I guess the original sequence is as follows:

- Day 1: 4-5-6-7-1-2
 Day 2: 8-9-10-11-12-13
 and 3 on either day.

AMG expert Review:

Probably the greatest gospel singer ever recorded, every rich nuance of this woman's voice embodies spiritual devotion; you don't have to subscribe to Christianity to appreciate her lovely countenance. It contains 20 well-known and loved traditional hymns, including "In the upper room" (parts 1 and 2), "Nobody knows the trouble I've seen", "Walkin' to Jerusalem", "My Story", "Bless this house".

The Power and the Glory, originally issued in 1960, is an album of Mahalia's favorite hymns, beginning with energizing anthems to the Christian church, and concluding on a quieter note. Accompanied for the first time by Percy Faith and his orchestra, these are works of art and faith and when Mahalia sings hymns, the message, wrapped in the beauty of her majestic voice, is more meaningful than ever before.

The track time of 4 is wrong. On the MC I measured 2'30 and comparison shows that this is really the take from November 1954 which is 2'35-2'39 on other CD's.

Track 8, "How I Got Over" is said to be taken in a live performance in Sweden on April, 18. 1961. This is probably wrong. See comment for 6104218J in the discography.

A stunning actress suddenly comes to the brutal realization that her life, however glamorous and affluent, is really quite meaningless. The second screen version of Fannie Hurst's novel (the first was made in 1934 and starred Claudette Colbert).

Academy award nominations: Best supporting actress - Susan Kohner; Best supporting actress - Juanita Moore.

This glamorized remake of the 1934 film Imitation of Life bears only a passing resemblance to its source, the best-selling novel by Fannie Hurst. Originally, the heroine was a widowed mother who kept the wolf from the door by setting up a successful pancake business with her black housemaid. In the remake, Lana Turner stars as a would-be actress who is raising her daughter on her own. She chances to meet another single mother at the beach: African-American Juanita Moore. Moore goes to work as Turner's housekeeper, bringing her light-skinned daughter along. As Turner's stage career goes into high gear, Moore is saddled with the responsibility of raising both Turner's daughter and her own. Exposed to the advantages of the white world, Moore's grown-up daughter (Susan Kohner) passes for white, causing her mother a great deal of heartache. Meanwhile, Turner's grown daughter (Sandra Dee), neglected by her mother, seeks comfort in the arms of handsome photographer John Gavin. When Moore dies, her daughter realizes how selfish she's been; simultaneously, Lana awakens to the fact that she hasn't been much of a mother for her own daughter, whose romance has gone down the tubes. Producer Ross Hunter knew how to push just the right buttons with an audience; a weeper supreme, Imitation of Life cleaned up at the box office, even with lines like "You weren't being colored; you were being childish".—Hal Erickson, All Movie Guide

Amazon review:

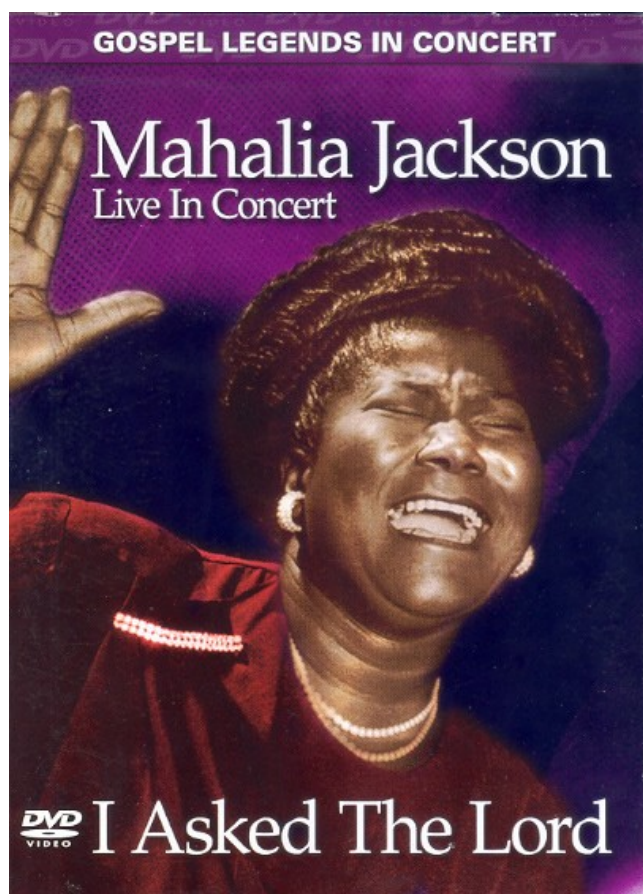

Imagine you're relaxing in a plush limousine, cruising through a luxurious American suburb (near Chicago, perhaps, or in Connecticut), sipping a creamy cup of hot cocoa and gazing out the window at a nonstop parade of nice homes, all decked out for the holidays. That's pretty much what it's like to watch this soothing DVD, which offers a drive-by tour of dozens of houses spangled with ambitious arrangements of Christmas lights and holiday decorations. (It's like one of those Yule Log novelty videos, only a bit more colorful.) Some of these impressive arrays are so elaborate you'd think they'd need their own hydro-electric dam to keep them glowing, and there's even a variety of animated lighting arrangements that move in dazzling sequences of action.

Nativity scenes? You've never seen so many you'd think this was a casting call for the many incarnations of the infant Jesus. (We particularly like the ones lit from within, as if to simulate His divine illumination.) And because no scenic holiday tour would be complete without yuletide Muzaker, music the visuals are accompanied by easy-listening renditions of just about every carol in the repertoire. Whether this is engaging or dull will depend on your tolerance for ubiquitous holiday atmosphere, but if you play this DVD while decorating your tree or opening gifts, only a Grinch would dare to complain.—Jeff Shannon

This glamorized remake of the 1934 film Imitation of Life bears only a passing resemblance to its source, the best-selling novel by Fannie Hurst. Originally, the heroine was a widowed mother who kept the wolf from the door by setting up a successful pancake business with her black housemaid. In the remake, Lana Turner stars as a would-be actress who is raising her daughter on her own. She chances to meet another single mother at the beach: African-American Juanita Moore. Moore goes to work as Turner's housekeeper, bringing her light-skinned daughter along. As Turner's stage career goes into high gear, Moore is saddled with the responsibility of raising both Turner's daughter and her own. Exposed to the advantages of the white world, Moore's grown-up daughter (Susan Kohner) passes for white, causing her mother a great deal of heartache. Meanwhile, Turner's grown daughter (Sandra Dee), neglected by her mother, seeks comfort in the arms of handsome photographer John Gavin. When Moore dies, her daughter realizes how selfish she's been; simultaneously, Lana awakens to the fact that she hasn't been much of a mother for her own daughter, whose romance has gone down the tubes. Producer Ross Hunter knew how to push just the right buttons with an audience; a weeper supreme, Imitation of Life cleaned up at the box office, even with lines like "You weren't being colored; you were being childish".

A collection of classic and rare performances from gospel legend Mahalia Jackson, including the four volumes "Mahalia Jackson sings" and the biography "Mahalia Jackson: The power and the glory."

The numbering on the DVD is wrong! The short intro is shown as 'Sweet hour of prayer' while 'Sweet hour of prayer' is shown as 'Silent night' and so on. At the end, 'The milky white way' is sung by a male vocal group. The first half of this song shows Mahalia singing, while during the second half the credits are scrolling by.

A profile of the world-famous gospel singer, covering her rise from a childhood singing career in her native New Orleans to her premiere at Carnegie Hall. Includes interviews with Studs Terkel and the Reverend Jesse Jackson, alongside performances with Dinah Washington, Louis Armstrong, and more.

Reviewer: Matthew Beckley from Sacramento, Ca I have all four volumes of Mahalia Sings Videos and a couple of other Mahalia Jackson Videos, and I can honestly say that this is the most well made and more informative than all the other videos combined. Lots of hard to find film clips and so many sound clips of Mahalia at her best.

Editorial Reviews Amazon.com

The Story of Gospel Music is also the saga of blacks in America, dating to the beginning of the slave trade. It's a documentary of a musical style of an oppressed people who kept their spirit alive through music. The producers string together an electrically intelligent tale, brimming with experts and lengthy, uncut contemporary and historical performances. The production team has an ear for the music and a keen eye for detail—showing 1957 footage of a lily-white crowd boogying to "When the Saints Go Marching In" or zooming in on an aging singer tapping her foot to a decades-old recording. There is much to be learned here, from the disclosure that "Amazing Grace" was written by a person involved in the slave trade to inspiring performances by the Fisk Jubilee Singers, whose very existence is owed to slavery, since the group's origins can be traced to a school that was founded to teach the mulatto children of slave owners. The singing is infectious, and the message—that African Americans "never let the West rob them of enthusiasm for music" powerful. Valerie J. Nelson

Mahalia Jackson was one of the greatest gospel singers America has ever known, the woman who almost single-handedly brought black gospel from the churches of Chicago into the public eye. In her pink, floor-length organza gown, her black beehive piled high atop her head, and her foot-stomping, hip-swaying style, Mahalia was gospel personified.

'Gospel-Musik ist nichts anderes als das Singen der Frohen Botschaft, das Verbreiten der guten Nachricht.' Dieses Motto stand über dem Leben der bekannten Sängerin Mahalia Jackson. Dieser Aspekt war es auch, der Lotte Bormuth dazu bewegte, sich näher mit der erfolgreichen Künstlerin zu beschäftigen. 'Ziel ihres Lebens wie ihres Singens war es, auf ihre Weise das Evangelium zu verkündigen.' Lebensnah und bewegend lässt uns die Autorin hier eine große Künstlerin und einen bewundernswerten Menschen vor unseren Augen lebendig werden.

"Halie" Jackson grew up in poverty on the levees of New Orleans, hunting for alligators for food along the Mississippi River with her brother, Peter. But every Sunday young Mahalia sang proudly in the church choir, the youngest member at age five. She left school after eighth grade and worked as a maid to help support her family. However, her passion for singing her special brand of music known as "gospel" never waned.

Praised by parents, teachers, and historians, the Young Patriots Series is an ideal way to sweep today's young listeners into history. The everyday details of family life, the time period in which they lived, what they wore, and the challenges they faced in school create a window through which children can access history. The early evidence of character, responsibility, ability, and courage showcase situations to which every child can relate.

"Hook kids on history with this series." —Learning

Though she's had many incarnations (private detective, classical musician, actress, television talk-show host, etc.), PAM WARD found her true calling reading books for the blind and physically handicapped for the Library of Congress program, "Talking Books." The fact that she can work with Blackstone Audio from the beauty of the Southern Oregon mountains is an unexpected bonus.
