Principal

Dedication

We of the Class of 1957 join with the entire student body and the faculty of Bassick High School in dedicating this yearbook to our principal, Mr. Friedrich G. Roth.

Mr. Roth has been, to all of us, an example of leadership, integrity, and courage. We, who have known and admired Mr. Roth, have seen him, at great personal sacrifice to his health, carry on the burdensome tasks of leadership of our school.

His unflagging devotion to duty has been an inspiration to all of us who take this opportunity to salute a great leader of a great school.

Class Hymn

Music by Adrian
Perachio arranged
by Judith Stumpf

Dear Lord on Grad-u-a-tion night Give us thy spi-rit; Lend Thy light.
Dear Lord we've left our care-free days, Help us to live in life's long maze

Grant us thy bless-ing as we're led By Thee a-bove in years a-head.
May our be-liefs show right from wrong, When we shall join life's busy throng.

Dear Lord, we ask Thee in Thy might, To help-us all to strive toward right.
Dear Lord we hum-bly ask of Thee, To keep-us strong in Thy uni-ty.

Thy power we know. Thy name re-vere. Guide us and be thou ev-er near. A - MEN
Let wordly wars and bon-dage cease. Give us for-ev-er last-ing peace.

MEMOIRS OF THE CLASS OF 1957

We entered Bassick High School:

On the seventh of September in nineteen fifty-four,
We hurried up the broad white steps and opened up the door.
We entered Bassick's lobby; the corridors loomed great,
We soon would know this place as home — we Sophomores couldn't wait.

We held our first class meeting:

We soon were faced with a difficult job,
But we chose our officers headed by Bob.
At our first assembly they all said "Hello,"
And from that time we were rarin' to go.

We sponsored our first social affair:

Of course, we shall always remember the day,
When we met in the gym; we were young and gay.
This "Ice-Breaker" sponsored by our Sophomore Class,
Meant fun for every lad and lass.

We returned for our junior year:

Our junior year was certainly fun,
Because there were lots of things to be done.
Everyone had his own goals in view,
And was working hard to get them, too.

We received our class rings:

'Twas a day in October when fingers were measured,
For our class rings that would always be treasured.
When they finally arrived, one day in December,
They were worn with pride by each junior member.

We had many dances:

The annual Frolic was held in the fall,
When the football team was saluted by all.
Soon came the evening when B and F hopped,
And inter-school rivalry temporarily stopped.

We participated in "All Girls' Day":

On "All Girls' Day" we did quite well;
Our fashion show was really swell.
If we lost the races, we won the cheer,
And we enjoyed ourselves each year.

We went to West Point:

West Point-bound on the fifth of May,
We piled into buses for a happy day.
Our buses were lost, we missed the parade,
But we were in time for the games they played.

We came back as Seniors:

We all looked forward to our senior year,
And in "fifty six" it was finally here,
Though it was fun, it was serious, too,
As we strove for our goal — graduation in view.

We presented the Senior Play:

Our Senior Play, "Father of the Bride,"
Much entertainment did provide.
All who attended would surely agree,
That it was the best it could possibly be.

We enjoyed the Prom:

Our Senior Prom — the night of all nights —
In splendor and beauty it reached the heights.
In formals and "tuxes" we danced 'til the end,
Tired, but glad that we did attend.

We went to school for the last time:

Along came June seventh and with it Class Day,
And "Good-bye" to Bassick we all had to say.
The will and class prophecy were heard all around,
As were characteristics — and our Queen was crowned.

We graduated on June thirteenth:

With caps and gowns we marched down the aisle;
Some with a sigh, some with a smile;
Received our diplomas — and went separate ways,
But we will be friends all the rest of our days.

CLASS

We the Class of "57" leave the halls of Bassick to the future Classmen to venture through, knowing that they will never again echo with the same school spirit.

1. To Mr. Roth—we bequeath our sincere appreciation for making our three, four, and even five years at Bassick so memorable.
2. To Miss Gallahue—we bequeath our profound gratitude for her untiring patience and fortitude.
3. To Mr. Silverstone we leave a T.V. set; something has to be hidden behind that new wall.
4. To Miss Lockwood we leave a five years' supply of admit slips and an enlarged office—with the hope that future Bassickites will not need them.
5. To Mr. Donofrio we leave a neat stack of completed girls' guidance cards.
6. We leave Mrs. Heine as a model for all ideal class advisors.
7. Chris Zoulamis leaves his shy smile to Roger Christenson.
8. Lenny Byam leaves his innocent looks on the basketball court to next year's "innocent bystander."
9. Irene Anderson leaves her bridal gown from the Senior Play to no one, for she plans to wear it.
10. Monty Kohn leaves his "Joe College" looks to next year's "Sloppy Joe."
11. Joan Flynn leaves her super-charged vitamin pills to next year's Social Director.
12. Alan Konecny leaves, and his homeroom teacher, Mrs. Heine, recovers from laryngitis.
13. Ginny Banores leaves all her left-over gum to patch up the damage left by the "Bassick Termites."
14. Peggy Gillanders leaves her strawberry blonde hair to brighten the atmosphere after the Seniors leave.
15. Warren Liehn leaves his sternness in the Senior Play to the father in future Senior Plays.
16. Mary Banores leaves her pony tail to next year's cheer-leading captain to swat anyone who gets in the way of a cheer.
17. Jim Swisher leaves his pointers on "How to Beat the Gun" for next year's swimming team.
18. Bob Durwin leaves an adding machine and rubber name stamp to all future treasurers.
19. Elaine Hubiska leaves her talent for scraping money out of H.R. 306 to next year's treasurer.
20. Pete Rehl leaves his model T Ford, together with a book of instructions, to James Melton's car collection.
21. Mary Ann Fox, alias Foxie, leaves her nickname to next year's wolf.
22. Judy Krakovich leaves her rosy cheeks after cheer-leading to some junior "paleface."
23. Bob Venmen leaves and Mrs. Zigun spends the summer giving thanks.
24. The Senior Class Officers take with them our thanks for a job well done.
25. Florence Farber leaves her ambitious nature and ability to accomplish the impossible to any twelve-handed Junior.
26. Al Kertesz leaves; and a gloom settles over the girls.
27. We leave a new freshmen class to the senior homeroom teachers, who will then realize how well off they were with us.
28. Richard Schempp leaves his long legs and size 13 shoe to next year's short basketball player.
29. We leave Mr. Mayer with a STAFF on which to lean.
30. Joan Patren leaves her friendly smile to some down-trodden freshman.
31. Edna Sherwood and Carol Marcel leave Miss Donnelly with a giant-sized bottle of aspirin and two new helpers.

35. Nancy Sullivan leaves the best of luck to next year's Editor-in-Chief of the Yearbook.
36. June and Marty Solomon and Elaine and Bill Plukas leave, ending the brother and sister set, but the four Borgman brothers will pick up the family tradition.
37. Judy Stumpf and Adrian Perachio leave their manuscript paper to next year's "budding musicians."
38. To those who desire to obtain scholastic achievement and a cultural background, we proudly bequeath the Faculty. Long may they throw the light of knowledge into little dark worlds.
39. Connie Trew leaves.
40. Marty Solomon leaves his battle scarred football uniform to be filled by Hank Cepero.
41. Joan Rastas leaves her ballet shoes to any aspiring ballerinas.
42. Six-footer Tony Feil leaves his towering height to be divided evenly between Steve Cuska and Donny Archambault.
43. The "Black Rock Boys" leave a stop watch to the many loyal patrons of 108, lest they over-run their time.
44. To Mr. Sheahan we leave a large assortment of keys to assist him in his never ending locker-opening.
45. Pat Merkle and Louise Siegal leave a copy of There Are Two in Every Crowd to the Bassick library.
46. Jean Mesaric bequeaths her co-operative and genial nature to Barbara Keeton.
47. Carol Cassano wills her versatile wardrobe to be fall issue of Mademoiselle.
48. Jeri Reid leaves her chemistry experiments — solved to all muddled underclassmen.
49. Roger Woznick leaves his popularity to be divided among a dozen underclassmen.
50. The Class of 1957 bequeaths all surplus funds to the Office Staff to be invested in an automatic question-answering service.
51. To all future classes we leave our genius and brilliance, knowing they will shield it from view as well as we did.
52. Sue Colman leaves and the crowd at the end of the first floor disappears.
53. Mike Piazza wills one of his many rebuilt transmissions to next year's Hot Rod — Frank Piazza.
54. Jimmy Vince wills his stuck car door to next year's junk dealer.
55. Connie Gallo leaves her laugh to any Junior who may want it.
56. The Senior secretarial girls leave their erasure crumbs in the typewriters for the Junior girls to clean out.
57. Patricia DeFrancisco leaves with aches and pains from doing those crazy stunts in gym.

We the undersigned so pledge for our class the above items to be held with memories of us.

In Memoriam

MICHAEL JOSEPH GANNON

Nov. 28, 1939 — December 6, 1955

Time: December, 1975. Place: Bustling city of Swisherville, named after James Swisher, who made his millions by investing in Harold Walsh's vitamin extract for emaciated football players.

On a dreary winter morning, Bob Venman, department store tycoon and famous sportsman, is suddenly awakened from his dream of his forth-coming vacation in sunny Hawaii by his butler and body guard, Charles Kenny, who reminds him that he will have to hurry if he wishes to attend the stockholders' meeting before sailing time. After taking his Veit Vitamins, he picks up the phone and calls room service. He places his order for a breakfast consisting of Cavalier Caviar, the caviar that goes "snap, crackle, and pop," with Anthony Marchese, who recommends he top it off with Tomaja's Tomato Juice, the tomato juice that tastes good like tomato juice should.

Waiter Dick Mahlo enters with Bob's breakfast. While serving the coffee, Dick, who has an audition for the baritone lead in the Niper Opera Company's production scheduled for this afternoon, nervously spills the coffee which is caught in a Cantell Coffee Catcher. At that moment the telephone rings and the desk clerk informs Bob that his Crazy Couchmobile is ready to take him to the meeting at his famous store, "Dressed in Venman." Bellboy Michael Bruno dressed in white bucks, grey flannels, crew-neck sweater, and Ivy League cap, the new bell-boys' outfit designed by Monroe Kohn, arrives to take his luggage down to the lobby.

Leaving his apartment at the Françoise Harri-man Hotel, he is greeted by elevator operator Charles McMellon who takes him to the main floor. After desk clerk Leonard Schuchman has registered Jauna Rastas, famous dancing star of the Starlight Night Club, owned by Earl Cooper, Bob asks for his morning mail. An advertisement for Perachio's Do-It-Yourself Tuba Kit made of genuine simulated plastic draws his attention. Doorman Roger Campolucci opens the door to the Venman Limousine driven by Richard Lichtenwald.

Driving down Byam's Boulevard, named after Leonard Byam, the famous comedian now starring nightly at the Bear Mountain Inn, they are passed by Piazza's Popsicle tricycle. Owner Mike Piazza is peddling furiously in an attempt to reach Grant's Grammar School for morning recess. This school was named after the world-famous educational pioneer, Kathleen Grant. Suddenly the car comes to a dead stop to avoid hitting Florence Farber's prize Pekingese, Sol, who won first place at the Cassano Kennel Club.

Bob enters Conference Room 15, where he is greeted by the Board of Directors headed by William Shultz. Seated at the right of the table is Grace Ober, the only woman stockholder, who is still talking from last month's meeting. Mary Hall, executive secretary, calls the roll and finds that stockholders present are Jack Kolesar, John Wakeman, Mark Sullivan, John Petito, and John Svanda. The only absentees are Mel Oppenheim and James Caserta, who are practicing tennis shots for the prized Janice Davis Cup at the Curri Country Club. After the treasurer Bob (Scrooge) Durwin gives his report, the meeting is adjourned because R.V. decides to tour the store before leaving.

He goes into an executive suite, an enormous room designated for television monitors, one for each floor of the store. This room was designed by Dick Freeman, technical genius. Bob sits in his new Rescsanski reclining chair and turns his eyes to the viewers.

As he checks the first floor of his store, he notices a crowd of people gathered around Jeri Reid, who is demonstrating Kofoed's Kollapsible Kosmetic Kases to Betty Fray, Loretta Kish, and Barbara Jasmin. In the background Robert Firment, Bob Sword, and Tony Feil, who are the only ones tall enough, are washing the ceiling-to-floor windows with Siegel's Soap Suds for Painless Window Cleaning.

From there the camera moves to the women's shoe department where Kathy Buckley is being fitted for a pair of Aylott's Alpine Snow Repellent Mountain Climber's Boots by Roger Woznick. Turning, the camera spots Howland Foster in working overalls, scraping chewing gum from the backs of chairs with the aid of his trusty slide rule.

On the second floor store detective Barbara Chase is chasing a small chimpanzee which has escaped from the Pet Department. Running down the narrow aisles lined with Bonvicini's Cut Crystal Candy Dishes, he bumps into floor-walker Myron Warshaw, who trips and falls into a three-gallon punch bowl filled with Hubiska's Health Tonic. To add to the confusion, salesgirl Joan Flynn, demonstrating a new line of New Year's noise-makers and baby rattles, is having trouble with four rattlesnakes, also escaped from the pet department. Bob, loving our little woodland friends, makes a mental note to remove the manager of this department.

Unable to stand the noise, Bob switches to the third floor sports department, where Marty Solomon is autographing copies of his new book, How I Climbed to The Top of The Tiddly-Wink Kingdom. At a nearby counter Edwina Bardugone is selling Ruth Peterson a pair of Betty Trotter's Leak-Proof Ice Skates for her under-water Ice Show of 1975. In another section of the floor, Nancy Roder, Grace Perry, Nan Byrd, Mary Barbar, and Barbara Lovasz are excitedly watching a weight-lifting contest between the contender Ray Bourque, and the National Champion, Bob Anderson. Rushing into the department, Timmy Kline tells the man that he must have a pair of Pratt's Velvet Sneakers so that he can continue his job as a Branchsnipper with the Garrett Tree Surgeon Company. The camera then picks up the third floor book department were Lynn Sabo and Jane Coyne are buying Joan Patren's new book, The Wandering Laplander's Guide to the Hot Spots of the Carribean.

PROPHECY

The fourth floor tele-viewer scans the toy department headed by Barbara Millerwise, who is putting on the famous story, "The Night Before Christmas," starring Alan Konecny as Santa Claus. Unfortunately, Mr. Konecny becomes stuck in the chimney and Irene Anderson, Nelson Powley, and Barbara Buckla, who are dressed as reindeer, have to pull him out. Stocking the shelves are some of Santa's helpers, Greta Johnson, Arlene Anderson, Sandy Sessler, and Doris Leska. Photographing Jolly Old St. Nick and the little children, is Donald Morrow. At counter number six Bonnie Teller startles Carol Miller, Rozanne Sweedo, Ann Johnson, and Coty Rodriques as she shows them one of Ruscoe's Roving Robots dancing to that new record, "Throw Papa From the Space Ship and Hope for the Best." Judy Irving is showing the new Do-It-Yourself Jr. Atom Smashing Kit designed by Dan Toth.

On the fifth floor Bob sees William Serlin, Gail Bayers, Barbara Oefinger, and Jimmy Garofol buying a new record album, "Music to Comb Your Hair By," composed by Al Lipscher and Anthony Lota and sung by the Donald Emond Choir. We sight Vinny Yurksaitis, music department manager, demonstrating a Von Briesen Violin to Kenny O'Brien, concert violinist. Accompanying him on his trip into Music Land is Professor William Harris of the Serlin-Rosenfeld Institute of Cultural Music. In the first listening booth we find Mariellen Bodnar, listening to Harriet Ailen singing June Solomon's hit song, "It Was Rock 'n' Roll in Your Grandmother's Time, but Now it's the Crabtree Creep," accompanied by Judy Stumpf's all Girl Combo on the Zork Label. At the same time, in the next booth Pat Merkle is very engrossed listening to Prezioso's Concerto in B Flat Minor for Timpani and Cello being played by the James Vince Symphony Orchestra featuring Nicholas Hatjitufras Cello Soloist.

The camera moves to the Fur Department which is on the sixth floor. In this department we see Judy Krakovich selling John Eiby one of Jeannet Salter's Select Seal Skin Coats. In the corner we see Kathleen Wolf designing a famous Wolf Creation.

The Women's Department is in an uproar, because today Nancy Sullivan, woman diplomat, has come to buy her wardrobe for her trip to the Oriental Kingdom of Loomis, ruled by Warren Liehn, exalted potentate. Fashion expert, Sue Colman, is aiding Nancy in her selections. Professional model Felicia Gallan appears in the latest sports wear outfit designed by the eminent fashion designer, Margaret Gillanders. She is followed by Fran De Bernardo, Elaine Plukas, Kay Ann Mesaros, and Kathleen Slater.

These models were sent by the Clarence Christy Charm School under the direction of "Candy" Pastor, noted charmer.

Mr. Venman then goes to the Men's Department where he sees Jerry Schnee followed by his assistant managers, Tom Harvey and Bob Lengel. On the sales floor Stan Jawoiz is selling Al Burghardt a pair of Alfred Di Bartolo's Hip Nickers for seaside oyster fishermen. We see Frederick Frank, man of the world, buying a dress suit with Bermuda shorts to go with the upholstering in his new $18,000 Eliano Eight, in preparation for attending the Christmas Ball being held at Silkoff Estates.

On the seventh floor, Miscellaneous Items, we see Carlene Langhorst, Marsha Sweats, Nancy Gombas, and Barbara Forna busily shopping for Silverman's Pizza Slicers, which are on sale. They are being demonstrated by Barbara Eckhaus who is slicing pizza and stuffing it into the willing mouth of John Zamary. Eagerly waiting for their turn to purchase this treat are Anita Lex, Gail Abitz, Beverly Ellison, and June Gomberg. Also at the novelty counter we see Karen Tregger purchasing a rubber rolling-pin created by Eleanor Veres for housewives who hit their husbands, but are afraid of injuring them. The attraction of the day is a bristleless tooth brush for self-conscious toothless people. This was invented by Dave Tupper while he was trying to use Hydrochoric Acid for tooth paste.

As the camera switches to the Concetta Valenti Coffee Shop, Bob notices a disturbance and decides to give it his personal attention. Entering the coffee shop, he hears Alexander Dobieski, World Known Gourmet, telling Head Chef, Edward Shegora, that the Viennese pressed duck was compressed under 45 pound pressure instead of 46. Bob quiets him down and decides to have a small snack before leaving for the boat. Bob is escorted to the table by the head waiter, Gabor Molnar. Mary Banores takes his order of Truffles a la mode, a dish brought to popularity by the noted playwright O'Harry Lindberg. Bob's snack is interrupted by the phone, which shocks him to the realization that someone has stolen the engine of his new sports car. Jerry Miliou, from the Kertesz Whirlbird Air Service, will take him to his ship, the S. S. Stoltman, the flag ship of the Grace Dowd Lines, skippered by Richard Schempp.

Out of the sky drops the Whirlbird. Escorted by two hostesses, Jean Mesaric and Judy Hill, Bob climbs aboard, and his seatbelt is tightened by Mary Ann Fox. He heads for his ship and a long restful vacation.
