A LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

Looking ahead to the future of the Spirit-empowered movement in the 21st century

The year was 1965. Gas was 31 cents a gallon. A loaf of bread only cost 21 cents. The average price of a new car in the United States was about $2,600, and a family could purchase a new home for about $13,600.

It was also in 1965 that the first U.S. combat troops arrived in Vietnam, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. led a historic civil rights march in Alabama from Selma to Montgomery, and the Higher Education Act of 1965 was signed into law, providing low-interest loans for students seeking to attend college.

That same year, about 300 students came to Tulsa, Oklahoma seeking something different. Men dressed in suits and ties and ladies in dresses and skirts arrived to a brand new campus and a new concept of whole-person education—mind, body and spirit. They were drawn to learn in an environment where they would be educated in every area of their lives at Oral Roberts University.

Fast forward 50 years. So much has changed in our world over the past five decades. Gas is now at least $3 more expensive than it was in 1965. Wars and rumors of war spark as nation continues to rise against nation, just as Jesus forewarned us in Matthew 24:6. Pressing issues in America have shifted to a downward-spiraling economy, immigration and health care as the moral fibers this country was built with unravel.

Here at ORU, this campus, which only had seven buildings in 1965, has completely transformed. Twenty-nine buildings cover the 263-acre campus. I have seen photos of Oral Roberts walking the farmland that once surrounded ORU 50 years ago. Yet today, Tulsa is a buzzing metropolis. The university's dress code is much different than it was five decades ago, ORU now has more than 26,000 graduates around the world, and the technology available to our students continues to evolve.

Things have changed drastically in our world and on this campus in the last half of a century. However, despite all that has shifted, some things remain the same. As I walk across this campus, it is amazing to see the young men and women from all over the United States and the world, who are drawn to this university because of the same desire that burned in the hearts of those 300 students 50 years ago. What first drew people to ORU is what continues to draw them today: the Holy Spirit.

The foundation of ORU has and will not change. Before building this university, God gave Chancellor Oral Roberts a specific mandate: "Build me a university on my authority and on the Holy Spirit." Oral consciously sought to build ORU in a way that was pleasing to God and incorporated the work of the Holy Spirit as a foundational principal in the lives of our students. Serving as president of a university that continues to be "built on God's authority and the Holy Spirit" is a high honor and a great joy.

Oral Roberts also heard the Lord tell him to "raise up your students to hear My voice, to go where My light is dim, where My voice is heard small, and My healing power is not known, even to the uttermost bounds of the earth. Their work will exceed yours, and in this I am well pleased."

We are still raising up and sending out Spirit-empowered leaders, who have been equipped with a whole-person education, into the uttermost bounds of the earth. Everywhere I go, I meet ORU alumni who are fulfilling the work of the Lord and the mission of this university.

This fall, we welcome our 50th freshman class, each one of them called by God to be here for such a time as this. We will continue to offer this class, and the students to follow, a whole-person education, where they can receive world-class academic training in an environment that is filled with the knowledge and power of the Holy Spirit. I am confident that they will join the thousands of alumni who are impacting the world for God and continuing to exceed the work of our founder.

God has brought us so far in the past 50 years, and I believe He has much more ahead for ORU in the next half of a century. From the classroom to the missions field to graduation, our students are world changers, and I am just as excited to see what God accomplishes in them over the next five decades. We are making no little plans here! ✨

FROM THE EDITORIAL DESK

You may have noticed that this magazine has a new look, as well as a new name: ORU Excellence Magazine. Over the next few months, we are working to create a publication that best serves our alumni and friends of the university.

We would also like to introduce the new editor of ORU Excellence Magazine, Danielle Stoltz. Stoltz, a 2007 Mass Media Communications graduate of ORU, serves as the Director of University Relations. MICHELE BACHMANN ENCOURAGES 2014 GRADUATES TO “DREAM BIG”

The May commencement ceremony welcomed the congresswoman and honored multiple faculty members

When Congresswoman Michele Bachmann addressed more than 750 Oral Roberts University graduates as the commencement speaker on May 3, 2014, her message was simple: live “with the end goal in mind.”

“It is my privilege to pass the baton on to you, and I want to adjure you: be confident. The education you received here at ORU will put you on a path to achieving great things as our nation’s future leaders,” said Bachmann, an alumna of ORU.

“You need to dream big, because we need you to dream big. You need to work hard, because our country needs you to work hard. You need to take risks, because our country needs you to take risks.”

Bachmann went on to praise ORU’s professors and to reiterate Chancellor Oral Roberts’ vision by encouraging students to “go into every man’s world, fearlessly and boldly. Proclaim the free gift of the gospel of salvation in Christ alone. There is no higher privilege and mission in life than that.”

Appropriately, the commencement ceremony then acknowledged individuals who have influenced the ORU campus and beyond. An honorary degree was presented to Mart Green, vice chair of the ORU Board of Trustees, founder and owner of Mardel Christian & Education bookstores and Executive Producer and CEO for Every Tribe Entertainment. Faculty emeritus awards were given to Donald Eland (assistant professor of communication, arts and media), Dean Helland (assistant professor of Spanish) and Angharad “Ann” Bransford Young (associate professor of Christian counseling).

Bachmann put fitting words to both the impact of these ORU leaders and the potential of the graduates when she said, “It is your faith and it is the people that you will touch that are going to last forever.”

FROM HUNGARY TO THE MABEE CENTER

Bernadett and Dorottya Balla find a new home at ORU, on and off the basketball court

BY ROB WALDEN

As globalization sweeps through the ORU campus, you'll find talented students from around the world on the rosters of the 16 Golden Eagle athletic teams. Two of these remarkable athletes are Hungarian sisters Bernadett and Dorottya Balla, who suit up for head coach Misti Cussen on the women's basketball team.

Hailing from Pecs, Hungary, just a few miles from the Croatian border, Bernadett came to ORU in the summer of 2011 after a decorated international youth career. Her impact on the Golden Eagle team was immediate. She scored in double figures nine times as a freshman and was named to the Summit League All-Newcomer Team.

Bernadett's influence on the ORU team was even greater in her sophomore year. She scored 26 points against Arkansas and 17 against Nebraska that year. Bernadett helped lead the Golden Eagles to a Southland Conference Tournament Championship and earned a bid to the NCAA Tournament, where ORU faced the nationally ranked University of Tennessee team.

Still, a piece of Bernadett was missing in her first two collegiate seasons; her younger sister and longtime international squad teammate had stayed behind in Hungary and finished her high school career. But that situation was remedied in the summer of 2013, when Dorottya moved across the pond and joined the ORU roster.

Reunited for the first time in two years, both Balla sisters played the best basketball of their lives last season. Bernadett set career highs in scoring and rebounding, while Dorottya registered the best individual performance by a Golden Eagle in 2013-14, with a whopping 30 points in a Mabee Center win over Houston Baptist.

Both Balla sisters say they could not see themselves learning and playing anywhere else than at ORU.

"ORU is the perfect place to reach my personal goals on and off the court," Dorottya said.

Both sisters are active throughout the university's community. They are members of ORU's Fellowship of Christian Athletes chapter and eager participants in outreach activities each fall and spring.

Though the adjustment from Hungary to the United States is a tough one, the Balla sisters are grateful they have each other and the tremendous ORU community to help them along their journey.

"It's been a great experience for me to learn about new cultures, mentalities and lifestyles," Dorottya said. "I am very thankful for this opportunity."

Golden Eagle fans can see the sisters in action when basketball season begins in early November. ✨

EMPOWERED21

WHAT IS EMPOWERED21?

How a global initiative to emphasize the work of the Holy Spirit began at ORU

BY DANIELLE PARKER STOLTZ '07

“Build Me a University. Build it on My authority and on the Holy Spirit.”

These are the words God spoke to Oral Roberts as he envisioned ORU. Fifty years later, the university continues to hold true to its founder’s mission—the foundation of Oral Roberts University is the Holy Spirit.

“We take that revelation seriously at ORU, even in the 21st century,” said ORU and Empowered21 president William M. Wilson. “Empowered21 is just one small way that we are demonstrating our commitment to the Holy Spirit’s work in the 21st century.”

In 2006, more than 50,000 believers from more than 100 countries convened in Los Angeles for the Azusa Street Centennial, a celebration of the Pentecostal charismatic movement. At the helm was Wilson, who at that time served as the executive director for the International Center Spiritual Renewal.

Wilson was appointed to the newly formed ORU Board of Trustees in 2008, where board members were working to clarify the mission of the university in the 21st century.

“Ultimately this process and conversation would turn into what has become known as Empowered21,” Wilson, who also serves as a global co-chair for Empowered21, said. “In many ways the Azusa Street Centennial was a reflection on 100 years and looking back, and then we started a process of looking forward.”

Those questions were answered through a series of conversations across five different continents. Three groups were the focus of these conversations: ministry leaders and senior pastors, young leaders and scholars.

In April 2010, ORU hosted “Empowered21: The Global Congress on Holy Spirit Empowerment in the 21st Century” to present the findings of those conversations. Empowered21 drew more than 10,000 people from 95 nations to focus on the future of the Spirit-empowered movement around the world.

As the conference came together, Empowered21 leadership quickly saw this was becoming much more than just a one-time event.

“We thought that the event here at ORU would be the end of the process,” Wilson recalled. “We found that a huge amount of interest started happening around the world to do things like this in different regions.”

Regional leadership teams, or cabinets, began forming globally, and Empowered21 took off. In July of this year, the 13th Empowered21 cabinet was established in India.

“Empowered21 has grown to be larger than any one individual or even any one group of people,” Wilson said. “We are serving the entire Spirit-empowered movement from charismatic Catholics to non-denominational Christians to historic Pentecostals, uniting them together for a fresh outpouring of God’s Spirit in our generation.”

Caleb Wehrli, a 2000 ORU graduate and member of the Empowered21 cabinet in Asia, has seen firsthand the impact the movement is making on the body of Christ.

“It’s amazing to see not only the emphasis of the Holy Spirit, but also the unity it is bringing within churches around the world,” Wehrli said. “And it is not just impacting one nation; it is impacting the world.”

Last year, when Wilson was named the fourth president of Oral Roberts University, Empowered21 returned to Tulsa, Oklahoma.

“The university serves the Empowered21 network; E21 does not own the university,” Wilson said. “Empowered21 is a service initiative where we are sowing into the kingdom, the work of the Holy Spirit and our generation.”

Empowered21 now gives ORU students exposure to ministries and spiritual leaders around the world.

“As a student there should be some excitement that their perspective of the work of the Holy Spirit is being brought to leaders globally on a regular basis.”

Approaching its 50th anniversary, Oral Roberts University remains a Spirit-filled university, producing Spirit-empowered leaders to be sent to the uttermost bounds of the earth.

“We are committed to providing academic excellence in an environment that is filled with the Holy Spirit, and that the real dynamic of ORU with whole-person education includes the power of the Holy Spirit in our students’ lives.”

ROB HOSKINS NAMED BOARD OF TRUSTEES CHAIR

The president of OneHope steps up for a “tremendous responsibility, an incredible honor”

BY DANIELLE PARKER STOLTZ '07

Six years ago, Rob Hoskins stepped foot onto ORU’s campus for the first time and knew it was a God-ordained moment. “There was no doubt in my heart and mind that God had called me to the university,” Hoskins said.

Having first served as a trustee and also vice chair of the ORU Board of Trustees, today Hoskins is the board’s chair. Appointed to this position in April, he counts it a privilege to take the helm of a board that was initiated only six years ago.

“I realize this is a tremendous responsibility, an incredible honor and amazing time to step into the chair,” he said. “For me to have the opportunity to serve this community, birthed by Oral Roberts to be ‘a university built on the Holy Spirit,’ is one of the most humbling opportunities of my life.”

Hoskins follows in the footsteps of Mart Green, founder and CEO of Mardel Christian & Education, who served as the board of trustees’ first chair. During Green’s tenure the promise was fulfilled to slay the four “dragons” that had besieged

“There is something rare and special here that’s hard to find elsewhere.”

ORU—debt, deferred maintenance, declining enrollment and deficit budget.

With these dragons slain, the university’s new objective is to dream.

“The dream is leading us to say, ‘Look at how the Lord has miraculously intervened on our behalf and has put us in this position.’ He did that for a reason.”

Hoskins experienced most of his childhood on the missions field of the Middle East and Western Europe. He is president of OneHope, a world outreach founded in 1987 and committed to bringing God’s Word to every child and young person in every nation by the year 2030. The ministry has since reached more than 1 billion children in more than 140 countries.

“I have lived in a world that is in desperate need of the healing power of Jesus Christ. And I believe the challenges we are facing with an increasingly secular and pluralistic world can only be overcome by the power of the Holy Spirit.”

Hoskins often sees the evidence of ORU’s global impact as he travels and meets graduates and former students.

“Wherever I go in the world, I encounter amazing people in meetings and in church services, and inevitably someone says, ‘I’m an ORU grad.’ The quality of our students and alumni never ceases to amaze me. There is something rare and special here that’s hard to find elsewhere.”

With ORU’s expanding mission of globalization, Hoskins, along with the board of trustees, deeply desires that the university’s reputation and influence stretch beyond Tulsa, Oklahoma to the uttermost bounds of the earth.

“That’s the great challenge and question that this board and now the faculty and administration are dealing with: How do we take ORU to the world and not lose who we are? If we can figure out the answer to that question, then I believe that the prophetic dream God gave Oral Roberts that ‘the students’ works on earth will have exceeded his’ will be realized.”

The words of Oral Roberts—“Make no little plans here”—resonate in Hoskins’ heart as he steps into his new role and invites the ORU community to dream with him and his fellow trustees.

“It’s not just a cliché to say that our greatest days are ahead of us,” he said. “I encourage all alumni and all the friends of the university to reconnect and discover how they can become part of what God is doing here.” ✨

A RECORD-SETTING SUMMER FOR ORU STUDENT MISSIONS

*More than 300 students.
Twenty-five countries.
Five continents.
One message.*

While volunteering their time and talent for ORU Missions and Outreach, students are supported by prayers from around the world. When Chiemeka Comier was designated as Team Leader for ORU's recent trip to Uganda, she probably never anticipated just how much they'd need them.

"At one point in the trip, seven of our 11 team members were sick and in the hospital," Comier recalled. "Ministry opportunities were being cancelled, and the team was getting very discouraged."

Comier asked Katherine Sanderson, their prayer partner, to lift up the team—and something shifted.

"We could truly feel the prayers. They gave us the strength to keep going," Comier said. "After the team was out of the hospital, those who had been sick completely turned around. They were on fire for the Lord and had their most divine, powerful ministry moments. Everything changed."

This is just one of the many amazing stories being shared by the 315 students who went on ORU summer missions in 2014—the largest group to ever participate. Altogether, they were able to reach 25 countries on five continents, including: Belize, Benin, Bolivia, Brazil, Burkina Faso, China, Chile, Dominican Republic, Germany, Ghana, Guatemala, India, Italy, Japan, Malawi, Nepal, Paraguay, Philippines, Russia, South Africa, South Korea, Tanzania, Thailand, Uganda and Zambia.

In 1976, ORU Missions and Outreach was born from Chancellor Oral Roberts' desire to bring healing not just to man's physical body, but also to the "totality of his needs." This past summer, missions teams did so through community and engineering projects, medical clinics, education incentives and business consulting—all while spreading the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

LOOKING BACK, LOOKING FORWARD

With the arrival of the 50th freshman class, former and new students share why they're drawn to ORU

pril 1965: The road that led to Oral Roberts University was just two lanes. Dave Eland could only see trees as he and his family traveled down Lewis Avenue for the first time. But as the tree line cleared, the high school senior set his eyes on the campus—still undergoing construction in preparation to welcome its first class later that fall.

The Denver, Colorado native had originally intended to visit ORU and then head to Illinois to visit Wheaton College. He and his family never made the second leg of their trip.

“That was 50 years ago, but I do know with great clarity that it was a divine appointment that brought me here,” Eland said. “I was very interested in coming to a place where you could enrich your spiritual well-being, as well grow academically.”

Eland not only enrolled in ORU’s first freshman class, but his father took a position with the school. His family moved to Tulsa, and Eland’s four siblings would also later attend and graduate from ORU.

“I brought my family with me to college,” Eland said.

Eland was one of 300 students to attend ORU in the fall of 1965, just two years after ORU was officially chartered, and begin a journey toward whole-person education, a founding principle at Oral Roberts University.

Kishel Stubbs also came to Tulsa with her family. She moved from the Bahamas in August of 2013 with her two sisters and mother. Her oldest sister and mother are currently studying at ORU—and Stubbs is now a freshman there, as of fall 2014.

The ORU Stubbs came to was very different from the one Eland arrived at in 1965. Nonetheless, just like Eland, Stubbs had a moment when she felt God drawing her to the university.

“After being on campus and coming to chapel, I felt at home, like this is where I am supposed to be,” Stubbs said.

This fall, ORU welcomed another group of excited freshmen—including Stubbs and hundreds more—to the campus. Yet, these students will hold a special place in ORU history as the university’s 50th freshman class.

As classes begin, the 50th class continues to pursue whole-person education and join thousands of other students who are fulfilling Oral Roberts’ vision and going into every man’s world. ✨

French and Spanish

How did you feel as a freshman coming to ORU?

I felt a mixture of extreme excitement, fear and just wonderment. It was overwhelming. But, there was almost an instant friendship between the students here at ORU. I remember everyone saying “hello” and everyone was so friendly.

What was one of your favorite memories of ORU?

The campus was being built while we were here. We had chapel on the north end of Timko Barton, and the cafeteria was on the other end. Friday evening was Steak Night, and everybody would dress up for that meal.

What have you taken away from ORU that has lasted throughout your life?

A closer relationship with Christ, a stronger faith and the philosophy of mind-spirit-body shouldn’t be limited to the four years that I am here. It needs to go along for the rest of one’s life.

Engineering

Why did you choose to attend ORU?

My parents and my whole family went here. I like the atmosphere. I love being here, and I just feel at home here.

What are you looking forward to this year?

Getting closer to God, learning a lot and building relationships that will last the rest of my life.

How did you select your major?

I’ve always loved engineering. I’ve always loved research and aeronautical engineering and learning how things work. I came to a College Weekend and learned ORU had a great engineering program. I am looking forward to meeting the professors and attending those classes.

What do you hope to leave ORU with after graduation?

A biblical standpoint on all things, no matter what career I choose for my life, and to be able to defend my faith and be a light and a witness wherever I go.

ORU GRADUATE STUDENT EXPLORES BIBLICAL RELICS THROUGH GREEN SCHOLARS INITIATIVE

A rare research opportunity has “opened up a whole different level of Hebrew language study”

BY MCKENSIE GARBER

Steve Green might be most recognized for leading U.S. arts and crafts retailer Hobby Lobby, but he also supervises the expansion and outreach of one of the world’s largest private collections of rare biblical texts and ancient artifacts. It’s known as the Green Collection, and in the summer of 2010, a division was formed to bring young established scholars together to pioneer groundbreaking research on these historical relics. This project, the Green Scholars Initiative, allows the world’s leading textual scholars to come together in a unique manner by pairing young students with established scholars from more than 60 colleges, universities and seminaries around the globe.

James McCaw, a graduate student of ORU, was one of those given the unique opportunity to study the Green Collection. The Claremore, Oklahoma native received his undergraduate degree in New Testament literature and accounting from ORU in 1988 and completed a master’s degree in Judaic Christian studies in May 2014. During his graduate work in 2013, he was informed of the Green Scholars Initiative by Dr. Brad Young, professor of biblical literature. Since then, McCaw has worked alongside fellow ORU students to examine an assigned document.

“Dating the document was a learning experience, as we determined script style from comparative analysis. We learned how Hebrew script evolved over the centuries,” McCaw said. “Comparing texts from different regions also played a role in the analysis of the document. Moreover, the materials used by scribes and how they copied other texts opened up a whole different level of Hebrew language study.”

McCaw plans to pursue a Ph.D. in Judaic Christian studies and ancient Near Eastern languages.

As for the Green Collection, it will soon be housed permanently in a national museum in Washington, D.C., where Green will also serve as chairman of the board. ✨

JULIE HUNTLEY NAMED DEAN OF COLLEGE OF BUSINESS

In July, Dr. Julie Huntley stepped into the role of ORU's new dean for the College of Business. Huntley, an ORU alumna, is the college's seventh dean.

Huntley has more than 10 years of industry experience with IBM and distinguished herself in marketing and sales there with multiple awards for superior performance, account leadership and customer goal attainment. Her doctoral research for IBM brought her distinction for identifying drivers of account profitability and growing customer relationships. Additionally, she has 20 years of academic experience. Huntley was responsible for formulating a comprehensive assessment approach for the College of Business at Point Loma Nazarene University in San Diego, California.

Leading curriculum development for marketing, she draws from her experience teaching courses in marketing management, marketing strategy, marketing research, marketing principles and marketing in an entrepreneurial world. She has also been actively involved in faculty mentoring and recruitment.

IMPACTING THE HOLY LAND

[A SPECIAL SECTION]

The Holy Land: It was in this region where many of the historic events that shape the Christian faith took place. It was here that Jesus walked the earth, performed miracles, was baptized, crucified, buried and resurrected.

Oral Roberts University is passionate about reaching the people of the Holy Land, an area that holds great significance in the Christian movement.

The school's commitment to the region—rooted in reverence for its history and hope for its future—is evident as students, faculty, alumni and administration are impacting the Holy Land.

Over the next few pages, you will read their stories and learn how they are reaching the people of this region, as well as how the Holy Land has ministered to their lives.

SUSTAINING 'THE HOUSE OF BREAD'

An ORU alumnus and Arab-Palestinian minister is committed to the city of Bethlehem

BY DANIELLE PARKER STOLTZ '07

The word Bethlehem is translated “House of Bread.” Yet, in this city of more than 25,000, there are people starving spiritually—men, women and children in desperate need of the Bread of Life. One ORU alumnus is answering the call to feed those who hunger and thirst in this historic city.

Fadi Zoughbi, an associate minister at House of Bread Church in Bethlehem, says he has been called to the people of his hometown. Through that calling, he also desired to pursue his post-baccalaureate degree.

After completing Bible college, Zoughbi's father, who was familiar with the ministry of Oral Roberts, encouraged him to apply to ORU. He was accepted to the university, but that was only a small step along Zoughbi's journey.

When he arrived in Tulsa, Oklahoma in 2003, he found the scholarship he received was not nearly enough to cover his tuition. He took a part-time job on campus, working and trusting God through school.

“It was a journey of faith. I was always late on payments, but the Lord was always faithful to provide, and I was always able to make the payment.”

Finances were not his only obstacles. With English being his second language, Zoughbi recalls struggling to acclimate to his classes and his surroundings.

“Everything was new to me. It took me some time to adjust to new people and a new method of life. It was not easy at the beginning, but I feel that it was a time to grow in the Lord and grow in his Word.”

His peers, along with his relationship with the Lord, ultimately pulled him through the difficult transition.

“I am glad I had good friends in the class. We were always encouraging each other. And also in the dormitory, I had good friends. We always prayed together and lifted each other up in prayer. So I'm glad for those years.”

In 2005, Zoughbi received his Master of Arts in Missions. About three years later, he returned to Tulsa to earn his doctorate in ministry.

“I knew that the One who began a good work in us is faithful to accomplish it,” he said. “Therefore when I began this course, I put that goal to finish it and complete it and get it done.”

Zoughbi graduated from ORU in 2011. His journey then led him back to Bethlehem—a city the Arab-Palestinian Christian describes as peaceful, but difficult.

“There has been a huge Christian immigration from Bethlehem, to find a location that would promise them prosperity, peace and a future, because of the political turmoil and the things that have been going on.”

It is because of this turmoil in the land that Zoughbi believes God has brought him to Bethlehem to minister to His children, working alongside his parents and three siblings at House of Bread Church.

“I always had the desire and calling to be here in Bethlehem and to share the light of Christ in our country. I appreciate if God opens any door for me to go and preach His Word anywhere else. But I feel that my main calling is here in the Bethlehem area.”

Zoughbi said lyrics from Chris Tomlin's song “God of the City” encourage him as he prays for his country.

“You're the God of this city ... Greater things are yet to come. Greater things are still to be done in this city.”

“We have a promise from God, and yet we have a responsibility to pray and to intercede on behalf of our nation. So I would also ask believers to pray for our country and especially to pray for Bethlehem.”

WALKING WHERE JESUS WALKED

An ORU graduate says studying abroad in the Holy Land made the Great Commission come alive

BY MICHELLE PAULSON

Many hope to travel to the Holy Land even once in their lifetime, let alone during their formative college years. For Seth Whitaker, the opportunity first presented itself while he was still just a junior at Oral Roberts University.

On this trip, the 2014 biblical literature graduate experienced life firsthand on modern Mount Zion, just minutes away from the old city of Jerusalem, the Western (Wailing) Wall, the Temple Mount and several other biblical sites.

“My stay in Jerusalem was a remarkable time of reflection and refocus,”

Whitaker said. “It led me to reconsider the importance of studying theology as a Christian.”

While in Israel, Whitaker explored lush landscapes, beautiful canyons and intricate rock formations. Seeing the Holy Land allowed the Bible to come alive and added a vivid perspective to Whitaker’s faith.

One of the most meaningful experiences during Whitaker’s time in the Holy Land was visiting Mount Arbel, which overlooks the Sea of Galilee. This is commonly thought to be the spot where Jesus gave the Great Commission. As he walked where Jesus walked, the words of the Great Commission came alive in a new way. Humbled and in awe of the Lord, Whitaker says he truly felt the importance of the call of Matthew 28:19-20—to “go and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, and teaching them to obey everything I have commanded you.”

Overcome by the magnitude of God, Whitaker says his faith was strengthened as the Lord revealed himself through the physical features of the Holy Land.

“I was humbled by the opportunity to reflect on the historical aspect of my faith in the birthplace of the Gospel.” ✪

A SCHOLAR BECOMES A SACRED VOYAGER

Why an ORU graduate theology professor is passionate about exploring Holy Land roots

BY MCKENSIE GARBER

From his childhood, Dr. Brad Young, ORU professor of biblical literature in the Graduate School of Theology and Ministry, was drawn to the Holy Land. The Tulsa-born and Sapulpa-raised scholar fostered a fascination for the sacred country as a young boy when his grandfather shared stories of his travels. Young first traveled to the Holy Land himself in 1972 when his grandfather sent him with two Baptist seminary professors who were leading a group to Lebanon, Syria and Israel.

“After the first trip to Israel, I realized how very important it was for me to study archeology, historical geography and the Jewish roots of our faith,” Young said. He decided to immerse himself in the authentic context of first-century Israel in order to truly study the life of Jesus.

By selling Fuller Brush products door to door and bussing tables at Denny’s, he raised enough money to return to Israel the next summer in 1973 with ORU professor Dr. Roy Hayden. It was during this trip he began to develop friendships with leading biblical scholars in Jerusalem.

“This was life-changing for me,” he said. “About this time, I was experiencing the baptism of the Holy Spirit, and I was involved in a coffee-house ministry.

“In Israel, I realized that many of life’s issues and Bible questions were answered at the source where it all started.”

Traveling to Israel with Dr. Hayden encouraged Young to attend ORU. He graduated in 1978 with an Old Testament major and New Testament minor. He went on to attend Hebrew University in Jerusalem and graduated with his doctorate in 1986.

Young returned to ORU to teach Modern Hebrew and began instructing in the seminary in 1987. Today, he serves as a mentor for students working in the Green Scholars Initiative, a program that allows the world’s leading textual scholars to mentor students studying rare biblical texts and artifacts. They have been translating unpublished Bible manuscripts from the Cairo Genizah.

“Genizah means ‘hidden store house.’ It is a rare book room of an old synagogue in Cairo, Egypt, where some texts parallel to the Dead Sea Scrolls have been discovered,” Young said. “It has been rewarding and exciting to translate this biblical manuscript with student scholars.”

Young says he’s lost count of how many times he has traveled to the Holy Land, but believes he has made around 60 trips, in addition to the 10 years when he called it home.

“I am passionate about studying the life and teachings of Jesus in the context of first-century Jewish faith and culture. We must remember and treasure our biblical roots,” Young encouraged. “The Apostle Paul taught that the root nourishes the branch. We have to understand Israel in the Bible. Understanding Israel and the Jewish roots of our faith breathes meaningful life into our spiritual formation and development.” ✦

Faith, Family and Estate Planning

It's estimated that about 70% of Americans do not have a current will. This can result in a painful situation for children and surviving spouses, along with the negative effect it can have on taxes and fees.

Whether you have a large estate or a small one, you will want to decide how it is distributed. Proper planning will ensure comfort and care for your family, and contributions to your church or other organizations you have chosen to support.

Oral Roberts University stands ready to answer questions you may have about drafting your will. For more information, contact John Cherry in the Development and Planned Giving office at 918.495.7224 or jcherry@oru.edu.

ALUMNI NEWS

In June 2014, Joel Bjorling '75 published a novel, Country Star. He has published five academic works in religious studies, but this is his first novel. It is the story of a teenage girl who aspires to become a country singer. "It's about believing in and acting upon your dreams," Joel said, "about using your gifts to serve others and releasing your faith and expecting great things."

1. Dr. Mark Jumper '78 has accepted a call from the Regent University School of Divinity in Virginia Beach, Virginia, to serve as assistant professor of theological and ministerial studies. Mark completed a seven-year pastorate in Chicago last year, then moved home to Fort Worth, Texas, where he became certified as a teacher and worked with special education students. He and his wife, Ginger, and their seven children, ages 11 to 21, are active in Gateway Church. Their daughter Christina is an ORU associate alumna.

1990s

J. Israel Balderas '94 and his wife, Jill, have welcomed their first child, Jane Isabel Balderas. Izzy was born on March 27, 2014, sharing a birthday with her grandmother. The name "Isabel" means "a gift from God," which is exactly how the parents view their daughter, after trying to have a child for years.

This spring, Joel Dougherty '96 joined The Persimmon Group, a Tulsa-based consulting firm, where he now serves as the vice president of Organizational Effectiveness.

2. Debora Esteves dos Santos '99 wrote to tell us that 11 of the 20 or so former student-athletes who came to ORU from Brazil in 1995-96 were reunited in São Paulo on April 26, after 18 years. "We shared great memories and stories of a wonderful friendship that started at ORU and will last for life," said Debora, a stellar volleyball player who remains in the ORU record books with top 10 placement in numerous career-record categories and several conference first-team and all-tournament team awards. "It would be wonderful to share this happy and unforgettable moment with all our ORU family (friends, colleagues, teammates and professors). Every single one of you who were part of our lives were remembered on this very special day!"

2000s

3. Reggies Wenyika '02, '08-Ed.D. has been selected to serve as the new president of Southwestern Christian University in Bethany, Oklahoma.

Khaigin Haokip '07-D.Min. is the director of SAFE (Shalom Advancement for Evangelism) in Manipur, India. Last year, SAFE constructed a mission school-cum-children's home in the Sharon Valley. The school is called Shalom Oriental School. They serve 25 children and have six teachers. "One of the main purposes of the school is to reach the kids and parents with the Gospel of Jesus Christ," Khaigin says.

4. Jeffrey Keeney '10-Ed.D. is the new dean of the School of Education at Oklahoma Wesleyan University in Bartlesville, Oklahoma.

Spring 2014 alumni news correction: Megan Spees McNeill '09 has a bachelor's degree in mass media communication, not a master's degree in education.

Alumni spoke, and ORU responded: Homecoming is moving to the fall semester! Many popular events are on the schedule, along with some new activities. And in men's basketball, ORU's Golden Eagles will play our crosstown rival, the University of Tulsa's Golden Hurricane, as they compete for the 2014 PSO Mayor's Cup.

THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE HOME

The chairman of the ORU Alumni Board recalls what makes the campus feel like home to so many—and invites alumni to return this fall

BY CHRIS BUSCH '73

My older brother Gary and I made the 90-degree left turn off what was then a narrow two-lane Lewis Avenue. In our 1952 cream and red Plymouth Valiant, the journey had been a little iffy. I'm convinced that if a fair portion of our drive from Western Pennsylvania to Tulsa had not been downhill, we might still be trudging across Missouri right now.

We chugged through the Avenue of Flags and up toward the north parking lot—and our destiny. Moments of growth and learning, mistakes and dreaming, education and inspiration awaited us—but I had a long way to go.

I had been to ORU previously for a College Weekend around Thanksgiving, but this time, I wasn't here for the sights; I was here to stay. This would be my new home. And my new home was 105 degrees of sweltering humidity. In the shade.

Unlike our gasping Plymouth, ORU would be air conditioned, my brother assured me. I decided maybe I'd live through this.

The surrealism of the campus, my new life as a quasi-adult, unlimited seconds at Saga ... I was overwhelmed with a sense of adventure as well as a sense of being completely freaked out. Still, the excitement won me over. What would the next four years hold? How would this adventure play out? Who would I be when I left?

Freshman orientation started that night in Zoppelt Auditorium. Communion was scheduled, followed by the welcoming address from President Oral Roberts. It was my first experience eating the round white wafers, which felt like chewing paper. I was certain, however, that the grape juice was pure Welch's.

As President Roberts walked across the stage that night, with that purposeful yet calming stride, Zoppelt fell into a hushed reverence. He was about to share his vision for ORU, and 199 other freshmen and I were awestruck.

Speaking with eloquence and without a single cue card, President Roberts emptied his soul. I remember feeling, as I had at Thanksgiving, the surety of knowing I was exactly where God wanted me. I tracked word for word with everything he said—until this: "Everybody is hurting in some way."

Really? Everyone? I didn't see that. I didn't feel it either.

But over decades, I have observed that those words I once questioned and pondered are likely a universal truth: Everybody is hurting.

President Roberts went on to say that ORU's roots began in the healing ministry. ORU would not be sending us out merely as educated graduates; it would be sending us out as healers. He explained how teachers, lawyers, bankers, artists and musicians could be healers. Absolutely everyone could be healers. From the outset, we understood that going into every person's world would begin by walking through a doorway created by our education and degrees. And once through that door, part of our mission would be to heal others.

Today, we have some 27,000 graduates and 40,000 alumni in professions and pursuits of all kinds. Most of them are embracing their call to be healers. And all of them are hurting in some way.

This year, Homecoming has abandoned its frigid February location and moved to a new autumn address in hopes of making it easier for more alumni to come home.

Over the years, when visiting with alumni who have returned to the campus, I've heard a similar story: They spoke of how coming home was a time of healing. Walking on campus, re-experiencing an ORU chapel service, talking to friends, visiting with former professors, hanging out at former haunts, all while being surrounded by a new generation of students ... Dorothy said it best: "There's no place like home."

Our alumni need to come home. To be renewed. To be restored. To be reconciled. Many alumni have suffered the hard pains of life—situations like divorce, the death of children, bankruptcy, disillusionment, depression, rejection, confusion, gnawing fear. On and on, the hurts come. Many alumni are at the peak of their professions, while others wonder what went wrong.

To all of you I say, "Come home."

Bring your heart for a visit this Nov. 13-16 as our Alumni Nation gathers from every part of the earth to migrate back home, to Tulsa, to our alma mater. Stroll the campus with the newest healers-in-training, some from ORU's 50th freshman class. Let the rising and infectious spirit at ORU touch you once again. It's the right time, and it's the right season. ✨

"I remember feeling ... the surety of knowing I was exactly where God wanted me."

CHRIS BUSCH is an ORU Alumni Board veteran, having served as a charter director and chair in the 1980s. The 1973 graduate is the founder and CEO of LightQuest Media in Tulsa, Oklahoma.
